

ANTI RAGGING REPORT April/ May 2024

As part of our endeavour to keep our campus a ragging free, the students were sensitized on various aspects of security and social well being. The students were given talks by the Head of the Institution and Invited guest Dr Nikhil.

The students were addressed on the Anti Ragging Act and its various components and high-lighted the role of the students not only in preventing ragging but also in reporting incidents how ever trivial they may seem.

The Help line number of the Police and the numbers of the anti ragging squad were given to the students and displayed around the common rooms. Anti ragging posters are displayed around the campus and the video's downloaded from the UGC web site were also shown to the students. The presence of a separate Women's grievance Cell to handle certain sensitive issues was also informed to the students as many of them are female students

The Honourable invited member addressed the students assembled by emphasizing on what a student should not be doing not only with in the campus but also outside the campus with regard to ragging. The impact of indulging in ragging, on the psychological aspect of the person being ragged and so also how it can affect the person who is ragging was high-lighted.

The program ended with a vote of thanks for the guests present and the students participation.
